NEWER VARIETIES - Iris

Of the making of new Iris there is no end. Each year brings dozens of new varieties and the true Irisarian will throw out the old varieties which have been superceeded with those of far greater value. We endeavor to keep up to date with the Iris and have probably the greatest number of superior varieties of any grower in the world. We have 25 acres here in Beaverton and are also growing 20,000 plants at Ellensburg, Wash. But we keep no "junk", as each year we throw out nearly as many varieties as we add to our list. Thus of the 343 varieties listed in our 1938 catalog, we have discarded fully fifty, these being superceeded by others which are larger, taller, of brighter color, or have more substance.

To show the greater number of superior varieties growing in our gardens, we list below the newer varieties which we are now growing, not listed in our 1938 catalog. Of these we have from six to 25 plants, so that for next year we can furnish at the lowest prices offered by any other dealer. Perhaps we are foolish to grow so many varieties, which are confusing to the average Irisarian, but we are the NATIONAL Iris Gardens and for our own study we purchase every new variety which we think will prove worthwhile.

So here is a list of the new varieties which we can furnish for 1939. If you wish to order any of these, speak for them early and we will furnish our large rhizomes at as low a price as is offered by anyone. We hope that you can attend the meeting of the AIS at San Francisco next May. Get your ticket to read San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Ellensburg, for at Beaverton and Ellensburg we have all of these iris growing and can show them to you in bloom next May. We feel sure that it will be the grandest showing of new iris that you have ever seen.
